

The 23rd International Nursing Ethics Conference

Thirty Years of Nursing Ethics: Looking Back, Looking Forward

University of Genoa, Italy on 14th & 15th July 2023

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

This year's conference celebrates 3 decades of the international journal Nursing Ethics and engages with themes discussed in the journal since the first issue in 1994.

Plenary speakers include Professors Chris Gastmans, Marsha Fowler, Settimio Monteverde, Franco Carnevale, Loredana Sasso, Maria Grazia De Marinis, Riitta Suhonen, Georgina Morley and Ann Gallagher. They will reflect on philosophical, empirical and methodological developments in nursing ethics over the last 30 years and look to the future of the field.

We now invite Abstracts for our special anniversary nursing ethics conference, which will be hosted by the University of Genoa, Italy. The conference will bring together scholarship and research on a wide range of past and present ethical issues and look to the future of nursing ethics.

Themes include – but are not limited to - negotiating ethical aspects of care relationships with care-recipients, families and communities; managing challenges such as scarce resources; ethical aspects of care-giver well-being; nurses engagement with ethical/moral climate of care organisations; regulatory ethics which impact nursing practice; nursing ethics methodologies and innovations in ethics education.

The 2023 conference is organised by the Academy of Nursing, University of Exeter in collaboration with Prof. Annamaria Bagnasco, Department of Health Sciences, University of Genoa, Prof. Ann Gallagher, Editor-in-Chief and the international Editorial Board of the journal Nursing Ethics.

The Human Rights and Nursing Awards will be presented at the conference on 14th July 2023.

Practitioners, researchers, educators, managers and students in the field of health and social care from around the world are invited to attend and participate in this important conference to engage in discussion regarding responses to ethical challenges locally and globally.

Abstracts are invited for oral presentations, posters and symposia to address the conference theme and other ethical issues in care by 17th March 2023
